Ehsaas performs Qurbani on your behalf, according to the Sunnah of the Prophet (saw), and distributes the meat to the most needy. People for whom meat is an unaffordable 'luxury' and Qurbani time may be the only time in the year where they get to eat meat.

Why thousands trust Ehsaas to give their Qurbani?

The Belief

Qurbani is an animal sacrifice in recognition of the Prophet Ibrahim's (AS) own willingness to sacrifice his son for the Will of Allah (SWT). At the last moment, Allah (SWT) replaced Ibrahim's (AS) son with a ram, saving his life and rewarding Ibrahim's (AS) devotion. That is why we give Qurbani, and in doing so, distribute the meat to the most needy.

The Animals

We source healthy animals locally in the area (if appropriate) where the Qurbani will be distributed. This helps local farmers and their communities.

The Sacrifice

The animals are slaughtered directly after Eid prayers according to the Sunnah of the Prophet (saw).

The Packaging

Ehsaas employs local people to cut the meat in allocated warehouses, which is then packed in crates and delivered to distribution areas – there, the meat is bagged in 2kg portions ready for distribution.

The Distribution

Local communities are selected where people hardly eat meat during the year and priority is given to local widows, orphans and low-income families.

Ehsaas performs Qurbani on your behalf, according to the Sunnah of the Prophet (saw) which involves certain rules and guidance that we follow.

Some Rules of Qurbani:

- Qurbani can only be given on the 10th, 11th, or 12th days of Dhu-al-Hijjah
- Sacrifices can only be made after the Eid prayer (sacrifices made before do not count as Qurbani)
- All able sound-minded Muslim should give Qurbani
- All those that possess the Nisab value (including those that have reached the age of puberty & possess this value) should give Qurbani
- Animals for sacrifice must meet minimum age and health requirements
- Qurbani sacrifices should ideally be given in three shares - one for you, one for family or friends and one for the poor - however, if you are donating your Qurbani overseas then it will all go to the poor
- Those performing Qurbani should avoid cutting their hair and nails starting from the first day of Dhu-al-Hijjah until after their sacrifice

Should I give the names of all the people who are giving this Qurbani?

The names of the people who the Qurbani is for can be given but this is optional according to the intention already made.

Donating for Others

You are permitted to donate Qurbani on behalf of other people, including those who have passed away, however, you are not expected to provide Qurbani animals on behalf of your adult children, who should pay their own share.

Prophetic Qurbani

'The Prophet (saw) sacrificed for the one who could not sacrifice from his Ummah, one who bore witness to the Oneness of Allah and [his] Prophethood'. [Tabarani and Ahmad]

After fulfilling his personal obligation, the Prophet (saw) gave an additional Qurbani in the name of the Muslims who could not afford to do so.

Please help us revive this forgotten Sunnah to help even more needy people.

"Thank you to Ehsaas for giving the poor this meat which has made us very happy and we pray for those that have provided this for us".
